

Independent project and quality assurance

KPMG offers an external assessment of project implementation. Our approach is designed to reduce the risk of project failure, while empowering project managers. Ours is a structured and flexible technique that helps clients across multiple industries navigate the implementation of complex transformations. The objective is to provide program and business stakeholders with an unbiased, independent, objective and forward-looking assessment of the risk they may encounter over the course of their transformation journey.

This offering entails the following:

Health checks: project risk reviews before, during and after implementation

Quality assurance: perform stage gate reviews and ensure project deliverables meet quality standards

Risk management: conduct deep-dive risk assessments and recommend risk responses

Project rescue: project remediation and turnaround post identification of material delivery issues
