

IS YOUR TAX CONTROL FRAMEWORK READY FOR REVIEW BY THE ATO?

Tax governance for private groups is on the ATO's agenda.

How ready is your organisation for the ATO to review your tax control framework?

Get ready with KPMG Tax Governance Assist and accelerate your tax governance journey.

Effective tax governance is one of the four key areas of the ATO as part of their Justified Trust (JT) methodology.

Our experience suggests that many organisations are not really ready for a review by the ATO on tax governance.

Many groups early on in their tax governance journey

- Policies and procedures are not documented
- Gaps in framework, processes and procedure documentation
- Limited testing of tax controls

What are the ATO's expectations on the governance of tax for private groups?

The ATO's JT methodology based reviews on tax governance for the Top 100, Top 1000, Top 500 private and Next 5000 organisations/groups all consider alignment with the ATO Tax Risk Management and Governance Review Guide (ATO Guide). Principles in the ATO Guide are demonstrated across 13 areas and are expected to be in place and operational within a broader tax control framework.

The depth of the ATO consideration concerning tax governance does vary understandably for the different segments. For the Top 500 Private and Next 5000 ATO segments, the ATO consider how the seven principles of effective tax governance have been applied in the context of an organisation, with greater emphasis on the first four principles.

Effective tax governance for these organisations is demonstrated by having a framework, processes and procedures in place to achieve compliance with lodgement, reporting and payment obligations.

Getting baseline tax governance elements in place

For the Top 500 private groups and Next 5000 organisations, they need to demonstrate that an effective framework exists to achieve a higher rating for tax governance as part of the ATO's JT methodology. This evidence can be demonstrated by:

- board endorsed tax policy document describing how the organisation identifies and manages tax risk, or
- documented procedures for preparing the income tax return and other key processes.

How KPMG Tax Governance Assist can help

Your online answers to a self-guided information gathering app will generate a tailored Tax Governance Policy document, with content representative of better practice for Top 500 private groups and Next 5000 organisations.

The Tax Governance Policy document will cover at a high-level:

- overall tax governance and strategy across the organisation
- key roles and responsibilities with respect to tax
- overarching tax risk appetite
- approach to tax risk identification, assessment and escalation
- definition for significant transactions
- tax reporting obligations
- relationship with the tax authorities.
