

Virtual Tax Force

Do you need a trusted partner to help you stay compliant during the post-COVID times?

Managing your compliance processes in the context of the current COVID-19 crisis can divert valuable company resources from critical business needs.

Having a partner you can trust and rely on may ease the burden on your finance team and may produce long lasting benefits for your business.

Staying compliant in times of crisis

Many businesses are overwhelmed by the efforts to remain fit during this emergency situation. Freeing up the resources needed to respond to these challenges may be achieved by outsourcing non-core tasks, such as tax returns preparation and statutory reporting, to a trusted external partner.

For these situations, KPMG may help you find the right solution for your business in order to smoothly navigate through the crisis and get on track for recovery post-COVID.

Based on our extensive experience in preparing tax returns and financial statements, we at KPMG have developed a service that ensures accurate and timely filings, while providing valuable insight into the data provided by you.

We have developed proprietary software solutions that are embedded into our processes to ensure high quality deliverables, quick turnaround time and cost effective solutions for our clients.

We have trained people who have the ability to turn data into value based on expertise and experience gained through working on hundreds of tax returns and financial statements every year.

If you face challenges like

Need to focus on crisis management and business continuity

Planning tax payments due to cash flow constraints
