Warwick Bartlett is the Chief Executive of Global Betting & Gaming Consultants (GBGC)

Global Betting and Gaming Consultants (GBGC) was established by its Chief Executive and founder Warwick Bartlett during 1998. Bartlett has an extensive track record in the gambling industry spanning some 40 years.

GBGC has established itself as the most credible specialist international gambling consultancy in the world. The company has worked with or supplied information to over 800 clients the majority of whom are 'blue chip'.

Projects have included market research/assessments, business/facility planning, product evaluations, design/operational reviews, the development/review of corporate strategies, regulation development for and on behalf of governments, M and A and due diligence. Typically clients include, operators, monopolies/lotteries, suppliers, investment banks, the major consultancies, and governments.

GBGC produces the Global Gambling Report, we are currently on our twelfth edition which is widely acknowledged to be the best available both in terms of both detail and accuracy. The latest review extends to over 2000 pages with numerous data points.
