KPMG in Malaysia

Workshop objective

Since the resurgence of Sales Tax and Service Tax (SST) 2.0 in Malaysia almost five years ago, there have been numerous legislative changes with new guides and clarifications issued by the Royal Malaysian Customs Department (RMCD) which makes it imperative and challenging for businesses to ensure that they are up-to-date and continue to comply with the SST legislations.

Businesses should take into consideration of the following:

- 1 Accuracy and timeliness of SST reporting
- 2 Keeping abreast with the latest SST developments
- 3 Potential SST non-compliance risks and associated penalties

As with all compliance matters, the possibility of being non-compliant always exists – be it whether due to human factor or other practical reasons. Associated with this are usually hefty fines/penalties which are unnecessary and burdensome for businesses, especially during such challenging times.

In line with this, the Minister of Finance has since announced the re-introduction of the Voluntary Disclosure Program (VDP) for both direct and indirect tax during the re-tabled 2023 Budget held on 24 February 2023. There are incentives such as penalty remission expected for taxpayers who voluntarily disclose any unreported taxes during the period from 1 June 2023 to 31 May 2024.

To assist you further in managing your SST compliance and the possibility of taking the advantage of the upcoming VDP, we have designed a half-day workshop where we will cover the key principles and recent developments on SST before we discuss further on what is expected from the upcoming VDP, including the perspectives from direct tax. Equipped with this knowledge, businesses can undertake reviews and identify any potential SST exposure so that they can make timely and informed business decision on whether participation in the VDP is warranted during this window of opportunity.
