KPMG in Malaysia

The global tax landscape will be permanently changed with the introduction and subsequent implementation of the recent BEPS 2.0 initiatives. Through its reallocation proposals (Pillar One) and global minimum tax measures (Pillar Two), organizations across the globe are trying to grasp the impact of these proposals and come up with measures to minimize tax impact. Closer to home, the introduction of BEPS Action 13 (Transfer Pricing Documentation and Country-by-Country Reporting) has enhanced collaboration amongst tax authorities worldwide for the mutual exchange of information and increased transfer pricing transparency. Malaysia is no exception to the rule, as Malaysian tax authorities continue efforts to reinforce existing transfer pricing rules and regulations.

With this, the burden to prove the economic substance of controlled transactions with the arm's length principle is now a greater responsibility for taxpayers.
