

Fair Food – KPMG Forensic Team

It was truly a pleasure and an honour to assist Fair Food in their admirable goal of redirecting food to those who are most in need during these difficult times. Their motto of “feed people not landfill” speaks volumes about their commitment to making a positive impact in the world.

Kudos to KPMG's Forensic team for their outstanding efforts, despite some team members falling ill due to the winter season. Together, we were able to process an impressive 1,900 kilos of food and dry goods, which translates to over 5,000 meals.

Through our volunteering experience, our team was able to connect with and gain valuable insights about communities in need. These activities help us to stay grounded and appreciate the blessings we have while recognising the challenges faced by others.

Redirecting the staggering 3 billion dollars' worth of food wasted every year in New Zealand to those in need is imperative, especially during tough economic times when families struggle to make ends meet and put food on their tables.

We not only learned from this experience but also strengthened our team bond. It is our second time volunteering at Fair Food, and we are committed to using our annual KPMG Volunteer Day to continue learning, building connections, and giving back to our communities.

Joseph Callus, Mike J Lowe, Matthew Preece, Elaine Liang, Emma Bridgens, Julian Vorster, Melanie Muller