

Air Travel Tax

From 1 April 2018, companies that operate passenger flights from Sweden will be affected by the new Swedish Air Travel Tax.

What

The new Swedish Air Travel Tax will be levied with a fixed amount per passenger (pax). It amounts to SEK 60, 250 or 400 depending on the final destination of the flight.

Who

The entity liable to report and pay the tax is the commercial flight operator whose ICAO-code is used for the flight. The tax liability arises when an aircraft approved for more than ten passengers departs from a Swedish airport.

Actions

As the new tax should be reported every month, this will imply more administration and higher costs for passenger flight operators. Also, companies without a Swedish organization registration number is required to apply for an one.

KPMG Sweden will help you

Within the field of Air Travel Tax, KPMG offers the following services:

- Apply for a Swedish organization registration number
- Register the company for Air Travel Tax
- Compile your figures and calculate the Air Travel Tax
- Prepare the Air Travel Tax return
- Give advice regarding the Air Travel Tax

The more passengers and destination, the more data to handle. KPMG has therefore developed an unique tool that can automate the whole compliance process, decreasing the internal costs.

KPMG's proposal to You

The initial fee for registration and start-up process to handle the new Air Travel Tax – SEK 30,000. Ongoing compliance services, e.g. compile figures, calculate the Air Travel Tax and prepare the Air Travel Tax return – SEK 12,000 per month (medium complexity). If the engagement covers three years or more, the initial fee will not be charged.
