We have a dedicated team of M&A Tax professionals who can advise you on the full range of deal-related tax issues and who are used to work in close collaboration with you and your other service providers to create synergies over the course of the deal.

Today's market place is highly competitive and demands quick and often difficult decisions. It's fast moving and constantly changing, with an increasingly diverse range of companies interacting across a range of deal structures and countries.

Our team of M&A Tax professionals plays a key role in the strategic planning and structuring of a deal, ensuring that the business people have a full appreciation, at a very early stage, of the tax risks and, importantly, opportunities.

Both structuring and due diligence work can trigger fundamental issues for negotiation. Tax is also key to the success of the post-deal integration process. Integrations may not be stated meaningfully without calibrating their tax effects.

In the context of the above, we provide our clients:

- Pre-deal tax planning advise
- Analysis of tax implications of alternative deal structures (e.g. mergers, acquisitions, asset vs share deals)
- Tax risk evaluation (tax due diligence)
- Identification of tax related opportunities during the deal evaluation phase
- Assistance in post-acquisition implementation
- Maximization of utilization of acquired tax attributes (e.g. tax losses)
- Assistance in negotiation of tax related matters with other parties and preparation of acquisition agreements
- Recommendation on tax effective solutions to international complexities (e.g. repatriation of cash, transactional taxes and charges)
