

Company Secretary Association

The role of Company Secretary has expanded far beyond being the chief administrative officer of a company, with many more diverse responsibilities, increasing challenges and opportunities.

Recognising the evolution of the role, KPMG has established the Company Secretary Association to provide a forum for company secretaries, to share experiences, discuss concerns, and review real life scenarios. Driven by key interests of members, a variety of professionals attend sessions to present and discuss their area of expertise, allowing those in an in-house role to gain an understanding of how others approach these areas.

The Association runs an annual programme of events, ranging from seminars to small group discussions.

Topics of discussion

A variety of areas have been covered in the annual programme including:

- Evolution of the role of company secretary;
- Shareholder engagement;
- Board remuneration and Gender Pay Gap Reporting;
- Board evaluation approaches;
- Annual General Meeting trends;
- Market Abuse Regulation theory and practice;
- The Stewardship Code; and
- Managing subsidiary governance.
