H1 review

Whilst, as expected, external factors continued to weigh on UK equity capital market fundraising, H1 2019 still saw the completion of several large placings and IPOs, and strong YTD gains by UK equity market indices

Macroeconomic and political conditions continue to present challenges to global equity capital markets

UK equity fundraising declined by 5% in H1 2019 compared to H1 2018 (although was up by 22% compared to H2 2018).

From a deal-number perspective, London's IPO market in particular suffered from a relatively sluggish 6 months: overall, only 21 IPOs completed across the Main Market and AIM, compared to 41 in H1 2018. However, funds raised via IPO were up by 4%, reflecting a lower volume of larger deals.

The key drivers of the subdued performance appear to be the compounding presence of a number of macro factors, including: relatively low debt financing costs; availability of private equity capital; forecasts of a slowdown in global trade; US-China trade tensions; the threat of late-cycle market corrections; and, closer to home, Brexit-related uncertainties.

Conversely, more dovish commentary recently around monetary policy in both the US and Europe bolstered equity market confidence, providing a more stable platform for equity issuance towards the end of the half year, and contributing to the relatively strong YTD gains in UK (and indeed global) equity market indices.

Investors remain committed to UK equity capital markets, with placings and the investment fund sector in particular demonstrating robustness

We see some encouraging signs that UK equity markets retain their appeal to investors:

- Fundraises via further issues were down by only 7% compared to H1 2018, and up by 42% compared to H2 2018. Investors have funds to deploy but appear to be demonstrating a preference to follow their money.
- An increasing proportion of IPO fundraising has been committed to investment funds and the like, with £2.6 billion raised over the past 18 months (representing 19% of total IPO funds raised in the period). This demonstrates the continued appeal to investors of equities which offer sustainable yields with lower risk, particularly in a low interest rate environment.
- Investor appetite also remains for growth companies, as exemplified by the successful completion of several high profile and large IPOs, including Network International, Trainline and Watches of Switzerland.

H2 outlook

The UK remains the centre of European equity capital market issuance and positive indicators point towards increased market activity

The UK remains an attractive market for domestic and international companies seeking to raise capital

London retained its position as the leading European market in the first half of the year, accounting for 39% of total equity fundraising in the region. Whilst there was a relatively slow start to 2019, UK equity issuance accelerated throughout the period, with June in particular a strong month. We expect London's leading position to be maintained in H2, buoyed by a number of significantly sized IPOs completing, including ReAssure Group.

The listing of Airtel Africa at the very end of June is particularly encouraging, demonstrating London's continued appeal to international and emerging markets. This sentiment was reinforced earlier in the first half of the year by the listing of two UAE based companies (Network International and Finabl), and by the completion of the first transaction under the LSE-Shanghai connect programme (by Huatai Securities raising £1.2 billion via GDRs). We expect to see further fundraises via this scheme in the second half of the year, and are optimistic about the UK's ability to continue to attract IPO candidates based globally.

Linda Main

Partner, Head of UK Capital Markets Group

First mover advantage may be key in obtaining a successful IPO valuation in a market exhibiting signs of caution

Wider political and economic factors are unlikely to abate in the foreseeable future, and in particular, the ongoing Brexit related political uncertainty could act as a hindrance to equity market issuance.

However, as demonstrated in H1 2019, the wider environment has not prevented strong companies with compelling equity stories from proceeding with their fundraising plans. The successful market debut and post-IPO share performance of the majority of new market entrants in H1 2019 illustrates the continued appeal of an IPO as a viable and profitable exit route for founders or private capital owners.

We would therefore encourage those companies considering an IPO to prepare as early as possible to create as much first-mover advantage as possible.

UK Equity Capital Markets in H1 2019

The UK ECM landscape

Placings dominated equity fundraising in H1 2019, accounting for 70% of total funds raised (compared to only 62% in H1 2018, and 42% in H2 2018). Leading the pack was AstraZeneca, whose successful £2.7 billion placing represented the largest individual fundraise on UK equity markets in over a year.

Overall fundraising was slightly up across both the Main Market and AIM compared to H2 2018, although AIM in particular suffered from a significant reduction in IPOs over the past year. More positively, AIM funds raised via placings were broadly consistent with the levels achieved in prior periods, demonstrating a commitment by the investment community to support high quality listed companies and follow their money across both AIM and the Main Market.

Across the Main Market and AIM, a total of 21 companies successfully completed IPOs during H1 2019, raising an aggregate of £4.4 billion. This was down on H1 2018 in terms of volume (41 IPOs) but up in terms of aggregate funds raised (£4.3 billion), and included the largest individual IPO fundraising in over a year and a half, by the UAE based Network International (£1.2 billion), closely followed by another significant fundraising by Trainline (£1.0 billion).

Momentum within the Main Market built throughout the first half of the year, culminating in several significantly sized IPOs in Q2. This is indicative of a preference from some investors for larger, more liquid stocks.

Positively, the post IPO performance of Main Market debutants continued to outperform the broader market, with Main Market IPOs achieving average share price growth of 33.6% compared to average growth of 10.4% across the index as a whole.

H1 2019 saw the volume of AIM IPOs drop to its lowest level since H2 2011 with external political and economic factors appearing to drive the collapse in IPO volumes. However, it is important to stress that the AIM IPO market is not closed and the successful IPOs of companies such as Induction Healthcare in the first half of the year illustrate a continued appetite from the investment community to back innovative and entrepreneurial growth businesses with compelling equity stories, regardless of external pressures.

Report Methodology Notes:

Data in this report has been sourced from Dealogic. Data relating to “Average returns in 2019” for FTSE100 and FTSE All-Share under the heading “2019 IPO Companies have outperformed the broader number” on page 2 has been sourced from Thomson Reuters Datastream. Data contained in this report has been generated at 30 June 2019 and includes priced transactions only. In this document, UK includes LSE Main Market and Alternative Investment Market (AIM). Where report refers to “Placings”, this consists of accelerated transactions (including rights issue rump placings), bought deals, fully marketed follow-ons, cash placings, PIPE transactions, at-the-market transactions, top-up placement transactions, and registered direct offerings as per Dealogic classifications. Where the report refers to “Rights Issues” this consists of rights issues, open offers and other guaranteed preferential allocation transactions as per Dealogic classifications. Note that Dealogic data only captures Rights Issue deal volumes when the results of the rights issue are announced, post-trading of the rights. For individual rights issue transactions shown on pages 4 and 6, total deal value includes the value of the rump placing at the placing price. After-market performance across Main Market and AIM IPOs has been calculated by taking an average of the percentage change between the offer price and prevailing closing share price as at 30 June 2019 over all IPOs that have been successfully admitted to trading in the period.
