Growing demand for faster, more agile service delivery. Changes in traditional lines of control and the associated risks. Managing a complex hybrid cloud environment. Greater scrutiny of value from technology. The IT organization faces formidable challenges. To meet them, it must focus on becoming more agile and responsive to the business.

With that in mind, KPMG's IT solution focuses on business outcomes and leverages deep business and technology experience to help clients achieve more benefits—including enabling employees, improving service levels, and delivering game-changing economics—using ServiceNow's industry-leading platform.

KPMG Powered IT uses pre-built and tested processes, business change management and technology integration accelerators. The close collaboration between KPMG and ServiceNow gives clients unique access to assets and industry leading practice in deploying the platform.

Put agility, efficiency and control at the heart of IT Services with KPMG Powered IT

With the ServiceNow System of Action, enterprises can replace unstructured work patterns of the past with intelligent workflows for the future. KPMG Powered IT leverages new machine learning and predictive analytics capabilities so that IT teams can concentrate on anticipating and preventing future incidents.

Our solution is designed to provide significant enhancements to core ServiceNow applications and data and security models – built on our experience designing and delivering business-orientated IT Services.

KPMG Powered IT uses automated testing, pre-built e-learning material and a core operating model to reduce your implementation time.

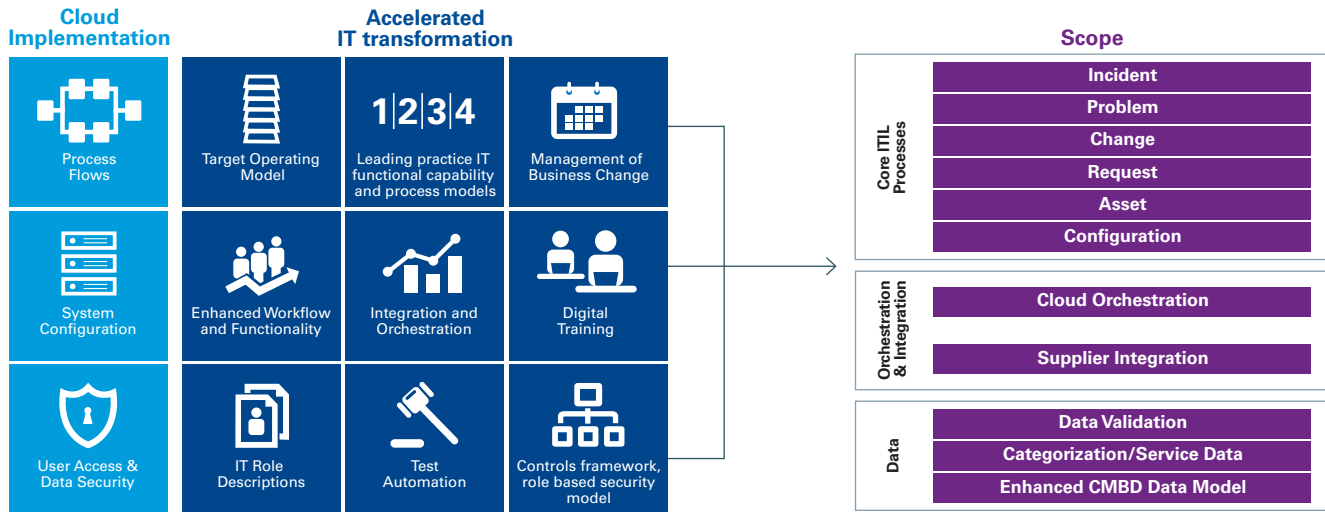

Our scalable solution comes with expert support on the issues associated with service transformation: people and change management, Service Integration and Management (SIAM) design, supplier integration, technical integration and data migration.

Is KPMG Powered IT right for you?

If you answer 'yes' to any of these questions KPMG Powered IT could be the technology-enabled service solution you are looking for.

1. Are multiple tools, fragmented processes and data creating a lack of clarity around service quality?
2. Do you have an unwieldy and costly service management platform that is making it hard to change?
3. Are you experiencing regular service failures because you have poor sight or understanding of change?
4. Are you finding it difficult to automate activities within or across functions?
5. Are you looking to improve control of your supplier base and/or insource service integration?
6. Do you see a disconnect between 'green' service reports from suppliers and business satisfaction with IT service?
7. Do you worry how you will govern your hybrid cloud environment and realize the 'advertised' benefits?

Powered IT delivers a step change in service and a platform for growth

Reasons to use KPMG Powered IT

Achieve answers faster

KPMG Powered IT can give you a head start in the transformation process and reduce delivery risk. It focuses implementation effort on high-value activities to get you to the finish line faster, so you can be ready to deliver IT Service improvements that can enable and drive the business.

Gain better control and visibility
