Data & Analytics: Transforming the Auditor and Client Interaction

The responses to the polling questions we asked during our October 11th webcast show strong interest in expanding the use of audit technology to increase business and operational insights.

Believe advanced technologies such as D&A can enhance audit quality and provide additional insights

Believe data shared during the course of their audit is being used by auditors to generate useful insights on their business

Would increase the volume of data and number of data sources to share with auditors to obtain deeper insights on the business

The most important business insights from using advanced technology in audits:

Operation/process improvements
Identification of control risks
Data reliability assessment
Accounting system design
Customer/vendor usage analyses
