Ireland - April Brings Changes to Tax-Free Travel and Subsistence Rates

Ireland's Minister for Public Expenditure and Reform recently published circulars containing revised maximum rates of motor travel and subsistence allowances.<sup>1</sup> These apply from 1 April 2017.

Where certain conditions are met, motor travel and subsistence allowances based on Civil Service rates and criteria can be paid to employees tax free.

WHY THIS MATTERS

The revised maximum rates set out in this newsletter apply from 1 April 2017. In light of this, employers might wish to review their policies and the level of motor travel and subsistence allowances that they pay. Flat-rate allowances paid in excess of these rates are taxable via employer payroll tax withholding.
