Indonesia - Tax Treaty Benefits, Revised Certificate of Domicile Rules

In 2017, the Director General of Taxation (DGT) issued regulation PER-08/PJ/2017 regarding the certificates of domicile for Indonesian tax residents (Surat Keterangan Domisili Bagi Subjek Pajak Dalam Negeri Indonesia - SKD SPDN). The new regulation revoked and replaced the former regulation PER-35/PJ/2010.

WHY THIS MATTERS

Although most of the revisions are administrative, monthly tax returns and payments (if applicable) must be current to obtain approval and a separate certificate of domicile (COD) is required for each country. Dual resident expatriate employees should apply for this COD to secure this exemption from tax in the other country.

Background

Indonesia has entered into a double taxation treaty with 63 countries, which generally regulates the taxing right of the source country. Obtaining a Certificate of Domicile (COD) from the Indonesian Tax Authorities will allow Indonesian resident taxpayers to claim tax treaty benefits in the corresponding country where they are also subject to tax. For example, a taxpayer who qualifies for dual tax residency may need a COD from Indonesia to help ensure that his Indonesian salary is only subject to income tax in Indonesia and is not subject to double taxation in the other country of residence.

PER-08/PJ/2017 Summary

Under this regulation, a resident taxpayer may request a COD to be issued for the following:

Tax Year/Period	Timing when COD is submitted	Condition for approval
Current tax year	Anytime during the year	The latest Article 25 monthly tax return due has been submitted (if applicable)
