

GMS Flash Alert

2023-182 | September 21, 2023

KPMG International - KPMG Publishes Trends in Remote Working Report

KPMG has published "The 2023 Current Trends in Remote Working Report – It's been three years: Evolving trends in remote working."

Remote work has become an integral part of our working world. The ability to work from anywhere has transformed how people work, removing geographical limitations and reshaping the traditional office-based model. Based on the views of more than 580 participants from 52 countries who took part in a KPMG International webcast, "Work from Anywhere: It's been three years," this report provides insights into their current remote work considerations and applications. To read more, click here.

WHY THIS MATTERS

The report reaffirms the growing importance of new work patterns – which are anticipated to continue for the foreseeable future – and the evolving trends and the extent to which organizations are embracing this "work from anywhere" world.

This report provides insights into approaches to "work from anywhere" and how the opportunity to work remotely can help attract and retain talent, and gain access to a broader skills pool.

More on the Report

Among the trends and observations analyzed are the following:

- Remote working policies continue to increase;
- Remote work is talent-driven;

© 2023 Copyright owned by one or more of the KPMG International entities. KPMG International entities provide no services to clients. All rights reserved.

KPMG refers to the global organization or to one or more of the member firms of KPMG International Limited ("KPMG International"), each of which is a separate legal entity. KPMG International Limited is a private English company limited by guarantee and does not provide services to clients. For more detail about our structure please visit <https://kpmg.com/governance>.

Member firms of the KPMG network of independent firms are affiliated with KPMG International. KPMG International provides no client services. No member firm has any authority to obligate or bind KPMG International or any other member firm vis-à-vis third parties, nor does KPMG International have any such authority to obligate or bind any member firm.

2023-182 | September 21, 2023

- HR and Global Mobility are responsible for international remote work;
- When remote work crosses borders, short-term arrangements remain the most common approved type;
- Compliance-related challenges continue to be the primary concern.

To learn more about what's in the report, click here.

* * * *

© 2023 Copyright owned by one or more of the KPMG International entities. KPMG International entities provide no services to clients. All rights reserved.

KPMG refers to the global organization or to one or more of the member firms of KPMG International Limited ("KPMG International"), each of which is a separate legal entity. KPMG International Limited is a private English company limited by guarantee and does not provide services to clients. For more detail about our structure please visit <https://kpmg.com/governance>.

Member firms of the KPMG network of independent firms are affiliated with KPMG International. KPMG International provides no client services. No member firm has any authority to obligate or bind KPMG International or any other member firm vis-à-vis third parties, nor does KPMG International have any such authority to obligate or bind any member firm.

The above information is not intended to be "written advice concerning one or more Federal tax matters" subject to the requirements of section 10.37(a)(2) of Treasury Department Circular 230 as the content of this document is issued for general informational purposes only.

The information contained in this newsletter was submitted by KPMG International.

www.kpmg.com

kpmg.com/socialmedia

© 2023 Copyright owned by one or more of the KPMG International entities. KPMG International entities provide no services to clients. All rights reserved.

KPMG refers to the global organization or to one or more of the member firms of KPMG International Limited ("KPMG International"), each of which is a separate legal entity. KPMG International Limited is a private English company limited by guarantee and does not provide services to clients. For more detail about our structure please visit <https://kpmg.com/governance>.

Member firms of the KPMG network of independent firms are affiliated with KPMG International. KPMG International provides no client services. No member firm has any authority to obligate or bind KPMG International or any other member firm vis-à-vis third parties, nor does KPMG International have any such authority to obligate or bind any member firm.

GMS Flash Alert is a publication of the KPMG LLP Washington National Tax practice.