United States – April 2024 Visa Bulletin

The April 2024 Visa Bulletin released by the U.S. Department of State reflects minimal movement from the March 2024 Visa Bulletin.¹ United States Citizenship and Immigration Services (“USCIS”) will continue to accept Forms I-485, Applications to Register Permanent Residence or Adjust Status, utilizing the Final Action Dates chart.²

The State Department also made the following statement regarding employment-based categories in the April 2024 Visa Bulletin: “Very little to no forward movement is expected in the coming months since the final action dates for many categories advanced in April 2024.”³ The State Department also cautioned that readers “should never assume that recent trends in final action date movements are guaranteed for the future, or that retrogressions will not be required at some point to maintain number use within the applicable annual limits.”⁴

WHY THIS MATTERS

Congress limits the number of immigrant visas (“green cards”) which may be issued each year. A per-country limit of 7 percent of the annual quota of available employment-based immigrant visas applies. Each month, the U.S. Department of State (DOS) releases a Visa Bulletin indicating the availability of statutorily-limited visas for prospective immigrants.

The cut-off dates reflected in the Visa Bulletin, coupled with USCIS’ confirmation of which chart will apply, dictate eligibility to file a Form I-485 application in each month. In addition, the Final Action Dates chart in the applicable Visa Bulletin determines whether a pending Form I-485 or immigrant visa application may be approved.

The statements of the State Department in the April 2024 Visa Bulletin indicate that there will be no forward movement in cut-off dates for employment-based immigrant visa categories between May 1, 2024 and September 30, 2024, and retrogression may be possible. As a result, I-485 approvals and immigrant visa issuance during this period will be limited to those employment-based applicants with a priority date that is earlier than the Final Action Date cut-offs reflected in the April 2024 Visa Bulletin.
