Cyprus – New Rules for Obtaining Citizenship Based on Years of Residence

New rules for citizenship based on years of residence were published in the Official Gazette of the Republic of Cyprus on 19 December 2023¹ through the amending legislation of the Civil Registry Law, according to a new report (online) from the KPMG International member firm in Cyprus.

The Cyprus Ministry of Interior announced on 22 March 2024, that it is now accepting the submission of applications for obtaining Cyprus citizenship based on the new provisions of the aforementioned amending legislation². It should be noted that along with the announcement of the Ministry of Interior, the authorities have provided additional clarifications on specific provisions of the amending legislation, as well as the required documents that should be submitted as part of the application process.³

For the full report, see "Revised rules for Cyprus citizenship based on years of residence" in Immigrations Services Alert (3 April 2024).

WHY THIS MATTERS

With the recent amending legislation and announcements, individuals interested in applying for Cyprus citizenship through naturalisation based on years of residence have more clarity on the requirements of the application and examination processes.

It is important to note that there has been a relaxation of the rules in connection with the requirement of continuous residence in Cyprus during the 12 months preceding the submission of the application, without any absences. This is welcoming, considering the practical challenges that applicants had previously faced as a result of this strict condition.

The Report's Focus

KPMG INSIGHTS

Individuals that may have questions concerning conditions, eligibility, and the process for applying should consult with their immigration counsel or a member of the KPMG Immigration team (see the Contacts section).
