Argentina – Wealth Tax Deadline of April 30 for Repatriating Foreign Assets

In accordance with National Decree DR 281/2024, Argentina's government approved the extended deadline to repatriate foreign currency holdings until April 30, 2024 (it had been March 31, 2024).¹

WHY THIS MATTERS

It is important to note that individuals subject to taxation in Argentina on their worldwide assets have the opportunity to reduce their tax rate by repatriating 5 percent of their foreign currency holdings from abroad.

More Details

Taxpayers considered as tax residents as of December 31 of each year have compliance obligations in relation to declaring their "wealth" and paying taxes in Argentina on their worldwide assets. Under this regime, different tax rates apply to assets held in Argentina compared to those held abroad. The minimum nontaxable amount for fiscal year 2023 is ARS 27,377,408.28.

This increased percentage can be avoided if 5 percent of the assets abroad are converted into cash and repatriated before March 31 inclusive (deadline extended for this year to April 30). The repatriated funds need to be deposited in certain financial institutions maintained in the country until December 31 of the year of repatriation.

KPMG INSIGHTS

Companies with globally-mobile employees – especially Argentine citizens living abroad – with assets (whether inside or outside Argentina) subject to the wealth tax under Argentine law, should consult with their tax service professionals about completing and filing their tax returns and paying their taxes.

There could be benefits for repatriating some part of the taxpayer's foreign currency holdings abroad. Questions about the rules, who they apply to, and what next steps are advisable should be addressed to a qualified tax professional or a member of the GMS team with KPMG in Argentina (see the Contacts section).
