KPMG Southern Africa

Tech Risk Advisory

KPMG's integrated team of Technology and Cyber specialists works at speed to help you protect and enhance the value of your technology investments through your growth and transaction lifecycle. We differentiate ourselves by leveraging industry experience and multifunctional specialist skills through a tailored proposition specific to every client and project.

How can we help

- We have an integrated technology risk service offering
- We do not provide capital and are therefore a truly independent advisor, providing unbiased and objective advice regardless of structure and source of capital
- We help our clients to focus their attention on high risk areas in an information-saturated, complex deal environment, giving our clients transparency and insights to make informed decisions.
- We lend our clients the foresight that comes with depth of experience gained deal after deal.

Our Services

Buy

We assist our clients to prepare for the acquisition of companies, business units or portfolios of assets through the performance of a Technology Due Diligence Review, which aims to identify key risks pertaining to the technology investments of the target.

Sell

During the sale of a company, business unit or assets, we assist by highlighting key technology risk considerations that could impact the sale.

Assure

We help our clients to maintain stakeholder confidence in their ability to manage systems including the handling of client information and data throughout their business lifecycle, whether they are seeking to grow or strengthen their business asset. We keep our clients one step ahead by helping them understand and manage key Technology / Cyber risks throughout this complex process.

Advise

Where remediation efforts are required to address Technology and / or Cyber related risk, we help our clients by designing controls that will prevent or detect risk within the business value-chain where there is a dependency on IT, even during integrations or carve-outs.
